

Internationals galore at Loakes Park

SCOTTISH internationals Peter Lorimer and David Harvey are just two members of a star-studded Vancouver Whitecaps team who will be playing against Wycombe Wanderers at Loakes Park on Thursday, kick off 7.30 p.m.

Hot-shot Lorimer and goalkeeper Harvey are managed by their former Leeds United teammate Johnny Giles, who has assembled together a remarkable collection of footballing talent.

Vancouver can claim to be one of the top teams in the North American Soccer League, having won the championship in 1979 and finished eighth last season.

In all they can boast six senior internationals including one from England — Dave Thomas, the exciting winger who played for Queens Park Rangers and Everton.

Talent

Other internationals are the former Welsh skipper Terry Yorath, another ex-Spurs man Jimmy Holmes (Eire) and Pierce O'Leary, brother of Arsenal's David and capped by Eire in his own right.

The supporting talent is not bad either. These include Alan Taylor, who became a national star when helping West Ham United win the F.A. Cup in the mid-seventies and bustling Leeds striker Ray Hankin. At the back is former Everton defender Roger Kenyon.

The rest of the party is made up of about five Canadian nationals, so the match should prove an attractive one, even though final arrangements were not finalised until the weekend.

The Wycombe public will be privileged to see such stars, as the Whitecaps, staying at Bisham Abbey, are playing only three matches on their England tour, after a short pre-season visit to Eire.

The game at Loakes Park will be their first encounter on English soil. Their other matches are against Watford on Monday, March 16 and Sheffield Wednesday two days later.
